What's New In?

Photo Uploader for Facebook is an easy-to-use desktop application for uploading photos to Facebook without accessing a web browser. Homepage: Install Instructions: Please visit Code Samples: Vulnerability Details: There are several serious security issues with Adobe Photo Uploader for Facebook, which can be exploited remotely by a malicious party to gain access to the affected system. If you are a Facebook user, it is highly recommended to install this application ASAP. First, some background information. While Facebook has published a security advisory regarding the vulnerabilities, a detailed explanation of how these issues can be exploited is still missing. Facebook is aware of the security issues and working on fixing these vulnerabilities as quickly as possible. Vulnerability #1 - Storage Handling This vulnerability can be exploited remotely by a malicious party to gain unauthorized access to the system. The issue can be illustrated as follows: Assume that the desktop application contains images stored locally in the system's temp directory. While uploading a new image, the application uses temp directory's own file system to store the image. This way, the application will not impact on the normal file system and does not need elevated privileges to be executed. However, if the user is logged on Facebook and the application is executed at the same time, Facebook will append the current user directory to temp directory, which means that the affected files belong to Facebook as well. Since file access is not sandboxed, it is possible to copy these files to any location of the computer and access them directly. Vulnerability #2 - File Handling This vulnerability can be exploited by a malicious party to access files and to gain unauthorized access to the system. The issue can be illustrated as follows: On the affected system, there is a private directory. The affected application requests a file stored in this directory. This request is handled by the application in the following way: The application
